Course Overview

Assessment and treatment of stuttering

Sunflowers Training Center offers a specialized course on the Assessment and Treatment of Stuttering in Children and Adults. This course aims to equip speech and language therapists with a comprehensive understanding of stuttering, including its nature, causes, and various forms, as well as effective assessment methods and evidence-based therapeutic strategies for individuals of all ages.

Participants will learn how to accurately assess the type and severity of stuttering, design individualized treatment plans tailored to each client's needs, and implement practical, research-based intervention techniques to improve fluency and enhance confident communication.

The course will also provide hands-on insights, real-life case discussions, and practical tools that professionals can immediately apply in clinical and educational settings, ensuring a holistic and client-centered approach to therapy.

Course Objectives

- Enable participants to assess stuttering in children, adolescents, and adults.
- Enable participants to identify the nature and severity of stuttering.
- Enable participants to recognize effective stuttering treatment strategies for both children and adults.
- Enable participants to develop individualized treatment plans for stuttering.
- The course includes a wide range of rich and practical applications.

About the Trainer

Dr. Safa is an experienced clinician in pediatric speech and language therapy, with a strong focus on early intervention, behavioral support, and school-based programs. She is certified in several evidence-based approaches, including NDP3, DTTC, PCIT (UK), CBT, and the Lidcombe Program, and is also a certified Portage assessor. Her clinical expertise lies in supporting children with complex communication and developmental needs.
